Between Us

When Jessie and Barney Averitt celebrated their silver wedding anniversary on Sunday it was kept such a secret that many of the guests didn't know what it was. The invitations just said "At Home." Certainly it was one of the loveliest parties ever given in Statesboro, and most unusual the fact that after these twenty-five years ago many of the attendants at the wedding were in the original list of those who were invited to the wedding and even though it was a bit yellow with age, it was used for the anniversary reception this week.

REUNION IN ITALY During July P. Zack Allen and his nephew, Sgt. Francis Trappnell, met for a short reunion in Italy. Both young men have been overseas for many months and had not seen each other in twenty-eight months.

Brilliant Reception Marks Twenty-Fifth Wedding Anniversary

One of the most beautiful affairs of the late summer season was the reception given Sunday afternoon by Col. and Mrs. Barney Averitt, the occasion being their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. The entire lower floor of the Averitt home was made en suite for the occasion. The rooms were elaborately decorated with gladioli, asters and lilies.

Mrs. George Groover directed the guests into the library, where Mrs. Fred Smith and Mrs. J. P. Foy presided over the register. The guests registered in the scrap book opposite the page giving the account of the wedding.

Mrs. Roger Holland, Mrs. W. E. Floyd, Mrs. Roy Beaver and Mrs. Percy Averitt rendered a program of lovely music during the afternoon.

Mrs. Averitt chose for the occasion a floor length gown of sea foam blue mousseline de soie. The yoke was outlined with a double row of the same material. The full skirt was attached to the waist with a ruffle and the skirt ended in a short train. A shoulder strap of pink orchids completed her attire.

Two hundred and twenty-five guests called during the afternoon.

WOUNDED IN ACTION Pfc. Miles E. Cannon, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Cannon, of Statesboro, was wounded in action in France on June 16, according to word received by his parents from the War Department. Pfc. Cannon has been serving overseas since last March.

Social events: Miss Sarah Beas Renfro, of Statesboro, and Charles Russell Magahee, Cleveland, Tenn., were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents on the evening of August 10th; Miss Elsie deJarnette, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. deJarnette, of Statesboro, and Herbert Osgood Carlton, of Vienna, were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents on the evening of August 8th; members of the family of J. G. Brannen, well known citizen of Statesboro, honored him with a dinner Sunday in celebration of his seventy-ninth birthday; Master Linton Brannen, eleven years old, thirty-five of his class mates at a party given in celebration of his seventh birthday Thursday evening; William Henry Cone and George Donaldson entertained with a prom party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Donaldson Saturday evening, when they invited forty-five of their school friends.

From Bulloch Times, Aug. 14, 1924. By a vote that was overwhelming, the First District A. & M. School here has been converted into a teacher training school by the Georgia legislature; this bill was passed through the activity of Senator W. D. Kane, Albany, Ga., and Representatives Harvey D. Brannen and J. C. Parrish, of Bulloch.

"About Town" comment: Pete Donaldson says he can't understand all this fuss about women receiving men's wages, for he says they are just as good as men, so far as he knows; Sid Parrish declares that when a girl begins looking for a man who will have her instead of one that suits her, she is a long past sixteen; according to Joe Fields (he was never married) the only reason a man marries is to get out of the house; he usually doesn't give a hang about that.

Social events: A very enjoyable occasion was the fish fry Tuesday at the new club house at Dover. Walter McDougald was host to members of the McDougald family; Olin Franklin delightfully entertained fifty guests at a peanut boling party on Saturday evening; Misses Katherine Lanier and Jewell Watson were hostesses at a lovely lawn party Friday evening, when about seventy-five guests were present; Mrs. Alfred Dorman entertained the Jolly French Kooters Thursday afternoon at her home on South Main street.

GOLDEN WEDDING

Dover to Statesboro. Statesboro was a town of 900 persons. Confederate veterans were young men then. Men and wagons went through dust and mud, depending on the weather. The raw young town had no pavement. People traveling to Savannah, 55 miles away, required two days to make the trip.

So Uncle Dave Turner and the city have come along together and the stamp of his philosophy, gentleness and common sense is on the town and is expressed in its thinking. Statesboro is one of Georgia's finest small cities, interested in schools, education, in churches and in those things which make for good living. There is no way to measure his influence across the past half century. But it has been great.

FROM HEMMER

The social events of a half century ago were of the tempo of their day and had a flavor of their times.

It was at a "social" that Uncle Dave Turner accomplished something which made him a marked man. One of the favorite games of the socials in those days was for each young lady to bring an apron which she had finished. It was complete, except for the hem. That was the job which had to be done by the young men. There was a prize for the young man who finished first and who produced the neatest job of hemming.

It was the new printer at the office of the new newspaper who won the prize, young Dave Turner, whose thick black hair was cut in a pompadour style and was the only pompadour in town. He was a little vain about that pompadour and he thought it was that which caused the young ladies of the town to smile kindly upon him. It not until he was married that he learned it was his skill with the needle which made him a marked man among the town's 350 white adults.

A half century has passed and today Uncle Dave Turner spent the day as he spends any other Thursday. He helped carry the double forms to the press and he helped get out the paper. The Times has almost 3,000 paid-up subscribers and that is a remarkable accomplishment and one that requires a lot of attention.

GEORGIA PRESS

The weekly press of Georgia is one of the great bulwarks in the state against anything which would work to the detriment of Georgia and its institutions. And Uncle Dave Turner has been one of the chiefs among them.

Hundreds did him and his wife honor today, making it both a celebration of his 50 years of married life and of his fifty-first year with the Times.

At the home of his daughter, where the reception was held, there were many, many tables loaded with gifts. And a large basket would not have held all the letters and messages of affection and regard.

From 8 to 11 o'clock in the evening there were hundreds of visitors who called by to pay respects and express their affection for the two persons who have grown up with the city and who have contributed so much to it.

Uncle Dave Turner would scoff at it, but he and his wife and their life of quiet work and kindly dignity and service reminds one of all the old Biblical texts and all the old black-speller axioms to the effect that a life of service and of honest effort to follow the Christian ideal is not without reward.

That cannot be bought or obtained in any other fashion. So, I think they both had a good day, happy and content to be well and on the job, feeling about them the warm affection of family and friends.

It is one of the Georgia stories one likes to know and tell.

Dave Turner's Party Was A "Hunding"

On Thursday night the Journal editor and his wife attended the golden wedding celebration of Editor D. B. Turner and his wife, at Statesboro, and to say that it was a success is putting it mild.

It was the biggest celebration ever held in Statesboro, and it is said that the Turners have every right to be proud over.

Their friends attended by the thousands. They were there from the mountains to the sea, and Editor Turner's newspaper friends over two states did not forget him either. Among those attending were Ralph McGill, Hugh Trotti, and Jack Tarver, of Atlanta; President R. E. L. Majors and others.

The reception was held in the home of a son-in-law of the Turners, R. L. Brady, who has one of the better homes in Statesboro and was indeed a fine place for the occasion.

We've got to hand it to friend Turner, he really beat us on putting over a party. For several years we have been having birthday parties and as a result have accumulated a supply of socks, ties, shaving brushes, and the such, but friend Turner decided this was small fry for him, so he got busy and sent out invitations to his fiftieth wedding anniversary and as a result he got more gold, silver, china, and a hundred and one other things more than he will ever be able to use.

Our good friend Alfred Dorman and the editor were admiring the large number of "licker" glasses that went along with the sets he received, and yet editor pointed out that they would be useless to friend Turner, and that perhaps he would give them to either the Journal editor or Mayor Dorman, who could use them to better advantage than Mr. Turner, but friend Dorman said we did not have a chance of getting them as friend Dave had some son-in-law that could use them, so we failed in getting them.

It looked more like a fashion show to see the ladies of Statesboro and Bulloch county parading around in their "coming out" gowns, that is one thing that Statesboro is noted for—their dressed-up lady folks.

When we arrived at the Brady home we were met at the door and welcomed in, then we found the Turner family lined up to receive us. The mystery being the fact that friend Turner was all dressed up in a "monkey suit." We just do not understand how they ever got Dave Turner in one of them things.

We are sure that he would have been willing to give us all his "licker" glasses if we could have gotten him out of his "monkey suit."

As said to start with it was a grand occasion, and one that was appropriate, for Dave Turner has moved much to Statesboro and Bulloch county during the past fifty years and the good people of Bulloch county did not fail to show the Turners just how much they appreciate them.

The Journal editor felt very much at home with the people over there, and during the evening we had several old friends who we had not seen for more than forty years who came up and shook our hands. Then again during the past fifty years we have had much newspaper dealing with Mr. Turner. It was in 1893 that the editor of Pembroke, whose mother was Miss Rosa Averitt, formerly of Statesboro. He has served several pastorates in Georgia, and the Baptists of Statesboro are glad to have him visit with them this Sunday.

his good appearance ("This is the first time I've had on one of these suits in 50 years"). All in all, it was probably the most moving thing since the dale.

Uncle Dave told inquirers that he came to Statesboro from Clearwater, Fla., in April, 1893, and that "by August Mrs. Turner was looking for me. She invited me to a party, and I accepted. She didn't say that I was to take her, but I could tell by her eyes that she wanted me to. She asked me to marry her the same way—by her eyes."

Mrs. Turner, dignified, quiet and gray-haired at 68, turned such joshing aside with a smile—she's been hearing it for 50 years now, ever since they took their vows in a little country church near here in 1894. Dr. A. J. Mooney, Statesboro physician, Hill and Gordon-Simmons, Mrs. Turner's brothers, who witnessed that ceremony, were on hand to offer congratulations for the anniversary.

The reception was held in the stately white colonial home of Mr. and Mrs. Remer L. Brady, son-in-law and daughter of the Turners. All the other children were present, Mrs. George D. Sears, of Moultrie; Mrs. E. T. Denmark, of Marianna, Fla.; and Arthur C. Turner, of Statesboro. In addition there were four grandchildren, Julie Turner, Thomas Denmark, Laura Margaret Brady and Remer L. Brady Jr.

A few minutes before the guests began arriving, the family posed for an old-fashioned group photograph. The photographer, head emmeshed in the black folds of his camera, was constantly purred by Editor Turner, "Hurry, Hicks, hurry. Let's get over with."

All the names that have made Bulloch county great were there—farmers, and lawyers, and doctors, and sawmill men, and merchants, and teachers, and preachers. The mayor, Alfred Dorman, was there, and Dr. Marvin Pittman, head of the Georgia State College for Women, and Dr. S. V. Sanford, chancellor of the University System of Georgia. Some of his editor cronies were there—R. E. L. Majors, of Claxton, and Frank Miller, of Pembroke, among them.

It was an occasion brilliant with friendliness and flowers and music, and Editor Turner says is ushered in a new era: "My wife said we were going to run things 50-50. Well, she's run them for the first 50 years; from now on, I'm the boss."

It would, however, take considerably more than a golden wedding anniversary—and a tuxedo—to keep Uncle Dave serious for any length of time. He cheerfully handed out love-laborer marital advice (to men) "Stay in your office as much as possible"), and accepted compliments on

EXERCISE CAUTION GINNING IN COTTON

Farmers and Ginners Are Urged to Improve Cotton Going from Bulloch County

Pointing out that cotton is one of Bulloch county's most valuable crops, County Agent Byron Dyer this week urged farmers and ginners to cooperate in its improvement by better ginning.

The ginner can help the farmer improve the quality of his cotton, Mr. Dyer declared, by having his gin in top mechanical condition, operating the gin with a loose seed roll, avoiding plating bales, by encouraging farmers in the community to grow the same variety, to pick it when it is thoroughly mature and dry, and to pick it as clean as possible and by installing a dryer.

The farmer, Mr. Dyer pointed out, can do his part by growing the best variety for the community, using good cultural practices and producing the highest yield and best quality cotton possible, controlling the boll weevil by efficient poisoning and taking cotton to the gin in as good condition as possible.

"Remember," Mr. Dyer continued, "in order for the ginner to do top-quality work, cotton must be in condition. Factors which determine the grade of cotton are color, foreign material and good preparation."

"Foreign matter," he asserted, "is largely under the control of the farmer. Preparation is under both the farmer's and the ginner's control, and color is influenced by weather during the harvesting season. Prompt harvesting when mature and dry will help cotton have a better color."

Staple length is a variable characteristic, Mr. Dyer pointed out, and he said that the variety best adapted to their communities.

Mr. Dyer said that he would have been willing to give us all his "licker" glasses if we could have gotten him out of his "monkey suit."

The Whazzits Arrive

AMONG THE MANY treasured contributions received on our recent anniversary season, not one has been more conspicuous than that beautiful remembrance sent in by Sister Lillian and her husband, Leo Martin, from the old home town. Thank the good fortune which gave us this sweet sister somewhat more than half a century ago!

This sister, one of the younger generation, has remained near the old home nest, and for the fifty odd years we have been away our opportunities for association with her have only been brief, yet she has learned and remembered at least one of our foibles—a weakness for guavas. And so when the anniversary gift problem came into her mind, in addition to another more permanent, she packed up a generous supply of guavas and sent them in by express prepaid. Whether by design or mere luck, they arrived the day after the big event—for which many persons may be thankfully unaware, for surely their pleasant aroma would have created a sensation if it were not for the strong of friends drilled through the receiving line the evening before. To us our odor is that of rich Arabian spices; to the unappreciative, however, these odors bring a living of the nostrils, a sort of lingering snort, and the oral inquiry "Whatthehell is that?" We shrink instinctively as we contemplate the procession of lady friends putting that question while they, perfumed to the high, held our hand in congratulations and inquired to know.

So when they arrived a day late, we found the expression of guavas on the back gate, knocking timidly at the back door and asking, "Do you want this smelly stuff left here?" And we did want it. So the night after, we slept with nostrils open, and dreamed of the presence of guavas on the boyhood home where the music of the mocking bird and the smell of the guava had lulled us into dreams in the long ago.

Thank you, sister Lillian, for that basketful of guavas!

No Vile Epithet

WE WONDER SOMETIMES if we do not permit ourselves to get over-heated by the harmless little names by which people merely identify us. One of our unmarried lady friends has recently insisted that this editor was entitled to protest against the growing use of the word "Uncle" as applied to him. We can appreciate her viewpoint: If we were an unmarried maiden of years, we'd resent being called "Uncle," but being what we are, an old man and the uncle of quite a number of nieces and nephews, we have not the slightest resentment at the term of intimacy often used by others than blood kin. After all, it's not the word used, but the intent of its use, which stirs the sensitive mind.

And what we have said about that one word, applies equally to the use of the word "Yankee" and "Rebel," which seem sometimes to rile the blood. If said in scorn, these words are offensive; if said in spirit of cordial friendliness, or merely for the purpose of more complete identification, these words are not vile epithets. From long usage they have come to be accepted entirely as geographical terms, and there is no offense in telling from whence a man comes. The points of the compass are merely conveniences; they do not distinguish us as character or lack of it. We who speak of "Yankees" merely intend to recognize the section from which they hail. If we sometimes put the prefix word "dam," that doesn't at all mean intention to insult. If we are looking for offense it is easy to find. Somehow, we sort of like to be called "Uncle" and "Rebel."

COWARTS HEAR DIRECT FROM SON IN JAP PRISON

The following message was received Saturday from the son of the late Cowart Jr., by his mother in Atlanta: "I am interned at Philippine Military Prison Camp No. 1. Hope and pray all of you well and happy; don't worry, and no word from you as yet. Please write. My love to all the family and friends. Tell me how you are. I hope I get to see you all soon." This is the first message Col. and Mrs. Cowart have had of their son since last December.

MRS. RAYMOND THORNTON DAVIS, A RECENT BRIDE

Cowart—Davis

Lt. Col. and Mrs. Leroy Cowart, of Statesboro and Atlanta, announce the marriage of their oldest daughter, Martha Ophelia, to Raymond Thornton Davis, of Richmond, Va., the marriage having taken place on August 3rd at 3:00 p. m., in Rockville, Maryland, with the Rev. Herbert O. Cooper, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiating.

Mrs. Davis for the past year has been stationed at Fort Belvoir with the WAC. She was born in Statesboro, remaining at South Georgia Teachers College after her family moved to Atlanta. Mrs. Davis is the daughter of the late Mr. J. W. Cowart, who is a prospector of the Japanese in the Philippine Islands; a younger sister, Mrs. Thomas B. Lowe, whose husband is now stationed in England; a younger brother, James Edward, a Tech student. Her father is now serving with the Allied Military Government in France.

Sgt. Davis was born in Richmond, Va. Before enlisting in the Army he was connected with the Dupont Co. of Richmond. From 1940 to Jan. 1944, he served overseas; he was stationed at Ft. Belvoir with the Student and Reserve School Co. H. Sgt. and Mrs. Davis are visiting his mother, Mrs. Parker Vail, in Richmond. They will visit the bride's family in Atlanta the 1st of September.

Parker—Moore Nuptials Announced

On Saturday afternoon, August 5, at 4:00 o'clock, the Dwight Memorial Chapel in New Haven, Conn., was the scene of the informal wedding of Miss Alice Carolyn Parker, daughter of Major and Mrs. Thomas Watson Parker, of Macon, Ga., and Kew Gardens, N. Y., and Lieut. William Moore Jr., of Statesboro, Ga., and New Haven, Conn.

Officiating at the impressive ceremony was the bride's uncle, Rev. Charles C. Sanders Jr., pastor of the First Baptist church, LaFayette, Ala. The couple was attended by Major Parker and Miss Helen Parker, father and sister of the bride.

Mrs. Moore wore a tulle-trimmed navy blue dress featuring a square neckline and a row of buttons down the front. After all, it's not the word used, but the intent of its use, which stirs the sensitive mind.

The former Miss Parker is a graduate of Miller High School and for the past year has resided in New York, where her father is stationed. Her maternal grandparents are the late Charles Crawford Sanders and Maude Bullard Sanders, of Griffin, Ga., and her paternal grandparents are the late Thomas Jefferson Parker and Sara Chambliss Parker, of Bibb county.

Lt. Moore is the son of William Morgan Moore and Mrs. Polly Wood Moore, of Statesboro, Ga. He is the grandson of the late Hardy Hunt Moore and Ruth Hendrix Moore and James Nixon Wood and Ellen Elizabeth Rice Wood. Lt. Moore is an honor graduate of Lanier High School for Boys, Macon, Ga., and attended Emory University, Atlanta, Ga., until he entered the service.

Banquet for Students Who are Graduating

Have a "Coke"=Welcome back

... or giving a returned soldier a taste of home To soldiers overseas, Coca-Cola is a reminder of home. To soldiers at home on furlough, "Coke" is part of the old familiar way of living. With frosty bottles of "Coke" on hand, offering a man in uniform a refreshing welcome is an easy matter. Have a "Coke" is always the hospitable thing to say. In many lands overseas, as in your own living room, Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes—has become a happy symbol of hospitality.

To the People of this Community

This is a home front community on the most vital war action now in progress in every community of the land—the Fifth War Loan.

We are advancing on our objective. However, we must make certain that every one of us puts something extra of ourselves into the fight.

No one needs to remind you that it is an American trait to go into a sprint with the goal in sight.

We started this push June 12. Reports from every city and town in America tell us that the number of individual buyers of extra War Bonds today has reached an unprecedented total. We all know that in addition to numbers we need fire power. Your extra effort is absolutely essential. The greater the stockpile of War Bonds, the easier it will be for us to get to the war.

This very moment our boys are waging a life-and-death struggle. Every additional War Bond you buy will give the boys an extra day's food, an extra day's shelter, an extra day's ammunition. Today is another day for the boys on the front. Today is another day for the boys on the battlefield.

GRAND OPRY STAR HERE TOMORROW

Hill Billy Jamboree Will Appear Under Tent For Two Hours of Laughter

Popular Blue Bird recording artist and former star with Grand Ole Opry, Nashville, Tenn., Pete Pyle and his Mississippi Valley Boys and Girls, will appear in Statesboro on Friday, Aug. 18, in a large waterproof tent theatre which will be located at West Cherry street and South Main street.

This great Hillbilly Jamboree, which it is known as, will be presented in a two hour show, chuck full of laughs, fiddling, singing, yodeling, dancing and everything that goes to make up a real Hillbilly show.

Many other famous former Grand Ole Opry stars are with the show, including the nationally famous radio comedians, Cousin Wilbur and Harless Herman. Other radio "names," very popular throughout the South who are with the show, include Slim Smith, Reba Hart, Jack Jackson, Rufus Neely, Bonnie Mack, Cal West, Pappy Herbert, Clem and Maggie, who were the hit of the Grand Ole Opry tent show last season and a host of others.

Doors to the big tent will open at 7 p. m., and the performance will start promptly at 8:15 p. m. Popular prices will prevail.

Play Nights Popular At Register School

The Register High School crowd and recent alumni enjoyed another evening of recreation at the Register gym Wednesday evening, August 9.

In addition to dancing and games, which have already proved popular, a reading table was provided. The table was set up with current magazines and comics. This was well received and will probably become a regular part of the Register play night.

The summer executive committee, Emma Jean Bohler and Marilyn Watson, announce that the next play night will be Wednesday, August 23. The student host committee will be La Veau Jones, Hazel Nevils, John Ed Brannen, Avant Daughtry and James Neal. All boys and girls of the community of high school age and older are most cordially invited.

Reinhardt Presents Radio Program

(By Sgt. Leode Coleman, a Marine Corps combat correspondent, formerly of Statesboro, Ga.)

En Route To Guam (delayed)—"This is Station K-O-R-N broadcasting on the Barnette Network, bringing you your musical varieties program."

Strains of Arty Shaw's recording of "Nightmare," the station's signature tune, can be heard in the background as Radioman Third Class Allen Vick Reinhardt, son of Mrs. Reinhardt, of 100 West 25th street, Albuquerque, New Mexico, announces the first musical selection to be played on the program.

The station is Reinhardt's creation. The broadcasting equipment is the same used on this ship as it plied the Pacific before it was converted into a warship.

He secured permission from the ship's skipper to commission the station. Even though Reinhardt admits his programs are strictly "corn," it was success from his first broadcast. He has nearly 100 records. "On the air" is at irregular hours, since he can contribute only his off duty time to it.

Before enlisting in the Navy in December, 1942, Reinhardt was associated with station KGGM, a Columbia System affiliation.

Transportation is over-taxed

IS YOUR TRIP ESSENTIAL?

Frankly, the transportation situation is serious. Buses are overcrowded — working untold hardships and discomforts to all. Yet thousands daily ignore the gravity of the travel problem to make needless, unessential trips... trips for pleasure alone.

So important is the need to conserve space for those who must travel to meet the demands of war, that Greyhound urgently asks YOU to postpone pleasure travel until the war is won.

GREYHOUND

Spend LABOR DAY at Home

LABOR DAY—has always been a peak for pleasure travel. Be wise this year and avoid all bus travel to resort spots. Prove your patriotism by doing all you can to help a critical transportation problem.

★ WHEN YOU TRAVEL... Be sure to put identification stickers or tags on your baggage to avoid delay or loss. Stickers and tags are available at all Greyhound Bus Depots.

STATE GUARD HEAD ISSUES AN ORDER

Reminds Guardsmen That In Discharging Duties He Shall Remain Neutral

Col. R. W. Collins, commander of the Georgia State Guard, has issued a general order to the members of interest to all Georgians. The following is General Order No. 4, August 14, 1944:

1. The Georgia State Guard has been in existence more than four years. During this period the fact that an efficient State Guard existed has minimized its use in carrying out the missions for which the guardsmen have trained.

2. While we must always train to carry out any of the missions assigned, it is well to remember that we will have most successfully and beneficially performed our duty to our state, if our mere existence as an efficient organization prevents lawless elements beyond the control of our civil authorities.

3. We hope that justice, fairness and due consideration for all citizens of our great state will continually reduce the need for a call to active duty. However, should such a call come it is our duty to maintain law and order and to restore the operation of law if disrupted. The accomplishment of this mission involves: First, the protection of all law abiding citizens regardless of race, color, belief, or financial condition; second, the protection of all property of the state and state, individuals and corporations; third, our duty to remain neutral in all disputes. It is the duty of our courts to decide points at issue and our duty to uphold the decisions.

4. It is desired that this order be read to each organization at the first assembly after its receipt, that emphasis be placed on paragraph 3 not only on first reading but in the instruction of the State Guard.

R. W. COLLINS, Colonel, GSG, Commanding.

Oscar Wynn Family Has Annual Reunion

The T. O. Wynn family held its annual reunion Friday with all the immediate family present along with some seventy-five friends and business associates of Mr. Wynn's.

Mr. Wynn had invited the group that to his "cooter" dinner, but upon arrival he informed the group that "cooters" were scarce and hard to get, due to the war, and that he had to substitute lawbees, stew, red breast perch, slaw, lemonade and cookies. This substitution was well done and an abundance of the substitute was provided.

The Wynns have been holding this get-together for several years. Those present seem to look forward to the next year when they can again attend one of "Uncle" Oscar's "cooter" dinners.

NOTICE TO ALL NEW HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS

If you have moved to Statesboro during the summer and plan to attend Statesboro High School beginning in September, it will be most important that you have a transcript of your high school record. Please write your former superintendent at once and have your record sent to you or to the principal of Statesboro High School.

Experienced

In the Selection of a Monument

Monuments are more than mere blocks of marble. They are personal chapters in the history of our day, and constitute lasting legacies to the world.

That is why great care should be taken in the selection of a design. It is a symbol as well as a marker, and the ideal monument is one that symbolizes the character of the one it commemorates.

Many years experience enable us to give you sound advice in the selection of an appropriate design.
